

Salesforce for Nonprofit Community Development Corporations

Nonprofit corporations exist to provide much-needed programs and services that benefit the public. Community Development Corporations help to revitalize neighborhoods and promote improvements by developing affordable housing, building leadership and civic skills, and building family and community assets.

Salesforce.com is the worldwide leader in on-demand customer relationship management (CRM) services. More companies trust their vital customer and sales data to salesforce.com than any other on-demand CRM company in the world.

Nonprofits around the world are using Salesforce to manage all aspects of their organization's data. From simple contact management to sophisticated social impact monitoring and program operations, nonprofits are applying this powerful technology to some of society's most challenging and urgent issues. Salesforce.com donates 10 licenses to get you going!

Harvest Solutions is salesforce.com Select Consulting Partner specializing in building CRM systems in a planned and phased approach. We will help your company launch a CRM initiative efficiently by examining your current business processes. We handle everything including design and development, data import, training and support.

Harvest Solutions is familiar with launching CRM initiatives for nonprofit organizations. We also have extensive experience implementing Salesforce for neighborhood development organizations. We have customized Salesforce to help manage after-school programs, classes and neighborhood volunteers.

"Harvest Solutions has been instrumental in our success with Salesforce. As a growing organization, having the proper support to make changes happen that are demanded by our users is the key to success.

Harvest Solutions performed a Needs Assessment to discover our exact requirements and customized Salesforce to perform precisely the way we need it to. It has been an amazing process and by having this support team in place, we are extremely productive and are able to adapt to new processes.

We highly recommend Harvest Solutions as a salesforce.com implementation partner and for ongoing maintenance and support."
